THESE ARE NOT WORDS often associated with traditional homes, especially those on exclusive lots in prestigious neighborhoods in Fairfield County. But they are apt descriptors for many of the details interior designer Amy Adkins Hinch included in a classic Shingle-style home to keep the interiors lively, fresh and appropriate for a young family. In the dining room, geometric wallpaper with a hint of silver and a lacquered ceiling elevate the space. "It really twinkles," she says about the evocative dining quarters. Moving to the largely navy blue billiard room, the broad band of "super happy yellow" fabric that rims the alpaca drapes pops, and in the breakfast nook, the glass light fixture is reminiscent of Champagne bubbles.

Living Well You might find a seating area in the living room boasts a Barbara Barry sofa from Heritage Home Group covered in a Donghia velvet and lounge chairs featuring a Putlock velvet. Heritage steel frame Milo Baughman chairs wear a Hogan & Guggen fabric. Rug is from Black. A Sleep Up 1.0 by Doyle Herman Design covers the bed. They framed the landscape with a terraced lawn. Blue Huesett beams lend to the breakfast room. Bedding is from Hancock & Hess. The dining chairs have a hair, hair Corina Leathers' custom '60s light fixture is a nod to the house's past.
